VALEDICTORY

Parents, Teachers, Classmates, and Friends:

"In faith and hope the world will disagree, but all mankind's concern is charity." Let us deliberate for a few minutes the quality that I deem most essent all for a future of camplete full ment for every graduate seated here tonight — charity, or, love of one's fellowmen.

In our world today many fears, doubts, and obsessions are prevalent. It is my conviction that love — complete, unselfish, all-enveloping love — can and will efface these fear, and the problems that accompany them. All forms of fear could be greatly reduced if every man would regard his neighbor as highly as himself. Why must we face fear from guided missiles, sputniks, or space? Why must we be overshadowed by a constant threat of depression or war? This fear stems indirectly from envy. Envy results in a never-ending endeavor to surpass other countries in the race for destructive weapons. Envy promotes distrust and hatred. Obliterate envy from the face of the earth; everlasting peace and harmony will be the end result — the result of self-less love.

"All for love, and nothing for reward." How many of us live accordingly? Too many of us feel that we have enough problems of our own, without becoming involved in those of others. Consequently, we usually take much effort to avoid the problems of others and concentrate only on our own. Those who continuously focus all attention on self and dodge the adversities of others actually ead very incomplete lives. Let us love our fellowmen as well as our selves! Eventually our rewards will be many times as great. The sooner we realize that ove is necessary for asting peace, the sooner we shall discover that it is of great importance, world wide importance that we put ourselves to the trouble and inconvenience of helping others to bear their burdens.

Not only must we love those of our own race; we must love everyone, regard ess of race, creed, or nationality. Why are we troubled by such a problem as segregation? Certainly, this results from a lack of love. We, as citizens of the greatest democracy in the world should hang our heads in shame that such a problem need ever arise. Here is a great need for love; a need for genuine understanding — the basis of true love. If we sincerely respect our fellowmen, we will not shun them because they are a different color or creed, because they are not so well to-do as we, or because they speak a foreign land guage. Segregation is one of many problems that arise when one does not respect his fellowmen! If we truly love as people, their color will not be a decided factor when we choose companions. All men are created equal and in my estimation they should be regarded as equal by a lift only then can we sincerely say that we love our neighbor as ourselves — His command to mankind.

It is with a deep and abiding knowledge of the tremendous part that over for our fellowmen must play in our future lives, that we, the senior class of 1958, bid you — parents, teachers, and friends — farewell.

Thus I extend a sincere and earnest wish that each of us here tonight goes forth realizing with St. Paul, that, "... if I have prophecy and know all mysteries and all knowledge, and if I have all faith so as to remove mountains, yet do not have charity, I am nothing."

Thank you, Veronica Andrews, Valedictorian

SALUTATORY

Parents, Faculty, Friends, and Fellow Classmates:

It is with pride, honor, and humility that I, as a representative of my class, welcome you to this twelfth annual class day of Bedford High School. Our earnest wish is that you may enjoy reminiscing with us, and that at the same time you may catch some of the glow of the genuine accomposition the high ideals, and the worthwhile goals that we have attained during our high school years. Surely graduation time is a milestone that marks a period of happiness in the life of each senior.

What is this happiness? Happiness is the mental state of contentment which comes from successful adaptation to the world as it really is. Realizing this, brings to mind that in order to conceive happiness in if e we must possess a pur pose or a goal. Just as each part of nature has its designed function, so do we on earth have a destined purpose. Without it we would drift like a helmless vessel upon a storm tossed sea. Purpose is synonymous with happiness contentment comes from contributing to the welfare and happiness of others—being useful it has been so a that no man can live who regards himse fia one, who turns everything to his own advantage. "Thou must live for another, if thou wishest to live for thyself." That action is best which procures happiness for the greatest number of people. It is of paramount importance that we fill our intended place and give to the world of our talents.

What establishes happiness? "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." Proverbs 23:7. The thoughts which nestle within us, rule our acts and emotions, and shape our future, determining success or failure. Happiness is success. Therefore, is that essential to control our thoughts as it is to control our actions? Men of wisdom earn to control their thoughts, to act constructively and beneficially Circumstances and situations determine our thoughts, but the inquisitive mind chooses our habitual concepts that make up our moral character, our attitude toward life. As Tennyson says, "I am a part of all that I have met." Consequently we make or mar our happiness by our thoughts

Right concepts of life bring about high ideals. As pioneers reached their destination by using the stars as their guide, so let us use our ideals as guides to our destiny — secured in happiness.

Thank you,

Judith Schafer, Salutatorian

CLASS HISTORY

Parents, Faculty, Classmates, and Friends,

This afternoon we would like to take you with us back in memory to relive the events that we, the class of '58, have shared in the past four years of high school. Going back to September, 1954, we find ourselves entering the halls of Bedford as freshmen. There we were, strangers, coming into an unknown and new environment. We had new friends to meet and a large baid ag in which to easy which class was where We were unorganized but soon we had our first class meeting for otherers we rected Chack Nevers president Bannie Brown vice president Claude Rouch secretary Jana Eberhardt treasurer; and Alice Krosschell, Stephanie Ludwikowski, Joe Hallauer, and Jim Starer, student council representatives. Miss Mowry, Mrs. Tussing, and Mr. Miller become our advisors.

During our firstman year we gave our first dance the Shamrock Swirt and Scalle Stout was our leprechaun. We also had a paper and scrap metal drive collected tax stamps, and so differently Remember how the bunnies melted and ran in198? For being the best solesmen in our magazine sales, watches were awarded to Linda Carter and Kathryn Shaffer. The proceeds from these activities were placed in our class treasury.

Septemaer 1955 found us starting our sephomore year Now that we had become accustomed to be routine of the transaction to be accustomed to be routine of the transaction of transaction of the transaction of the transaction of transaction of transaction of the transaction of transaction of the transaction of t

Our activities to increase our treasury this year were the collection of tax stamps another paper drive the making and selling of Chastmas corsages and earling and unother magazine sale in which Nancy Baker won a comera and John Paschen won a record player for selling the highest number of subscriptions.

At our sophomore dance, the Sweetheart Swing, a huge red oilcloth stuffed heart and a smaller cupid were given as prizes. Alice Connor was selected Queen of Hearts, and Bill Dodds was our King of Hearts.

Another project was the selling of Valentine carsages and candy. This time the condy was kept in coal &E

This year we ardered our class rings, which we expected to receive the following October. We were really excited because they were a new style, and we were looking forward to wearing them.

Marca Sattler took second place in the annual United Nations. Contest sponsored by the loca Oddfellows and Rebeccas.

A third September found us in our junior year. We were beginning to realize how fast the school year can go. We were now one step closer to the final goal.

We lost a dear friend with Mr. Facklam's death, but we gained a new one in Mr. Maschke

At our first class meeting we elected hind Kut-tz president; James Kerekes, vice president Karmu Yeager secretary. Veronica Andrews treasurer and Judy Schafer Sucille Stout Dennis Segur, and B.I. Wood student council representatives.

We received our class rings in October. They were a new style with a slant, and our initials were on the apposite diagonal corners

Among our activities this year, we had the dances at the school after the home basketball games and the Turkey Trot For this event Susan Gill, Stephanie Ludwikowski, and Sharon Werdehoff dressed as scarecrows. Patty Kronk's sister was the live turkey which was given as a door prize.

Our junior play was "You Can't Kiss Caroline", under the direction of Mr. Gerald Liebau, Marcia Sattler was the student director. In the cast were Susan Gill as Ma Rand; Don Putinta, Milt; Ray Barnhart, John Survey Howie; Judy Hausmann took the part of Bunny; Down Blackford, Pat; Alice Krosschell, Shirley and Sucre Stout Jeannatte Karma Yeager was Sally; Koren Ranke, Caroline; Nancy Elsea, Susie; and Nancy Baker Miss Jumasan To advertise this play, Mrs. Schmakel of the Mules Corral cancacted and served Caroline Floats.

Two honors came to our class when Veranica Andrews as a junior received the tile of Bertford Football Queen, and Karen Ranke reigned as Lambertville Homecoming Queen.

We decided to contribute toward the scoreboard for the stadium as our gift to the school

Bob Swehla Judy Schafer Shaton Ragge Murc a Satter Velopica Andrews and Ellen Stland received member ship into the National Honor Society for having met their qualifications and standards.

Our entire junior year come to a happy c max when we honored the senior class with a prom of the Taledo Club on May 19 with Jack Runyan's orchestra playing. The theme was Over the Rainbow.

Now with present memories we find ourselves on the final step, our senior year, which will prepare and lead us to a higher god and sectors. We ook back over the years we have spent in Bedford and realize how the time has flown by

In organizing our second cass for the oblaheod of us we elected Gary Roscoe president. Paul Shaffer vice president. Joyce Schmokel secretary. Judy Schafer treasurer and Susan Gill and James Storer student council representatives.

Three honors came to our class this year. Bob Swehla was chosen by the student body as president of the student council Karen Ranke was chosen Red Feather Queen not only of Bedford but also of Manroe county. Elen Stroud placed first in Bedford in the Hamemaker of Tamorrow Contest.

This year Raymond Bornhart and Terry Miller were accepted into the National Honor Society.

We had charge of the dances at school after the home football games.

The senior play was "You Can't Take It With You", with Mrs. Solter as director and Nancy Elsea as student director in the cast there were R y Bornhart as G andpa Judy Hausmann Mrs. Sycomore Alice K asschell Ess el Bruce Vogel Ed Ernest Guy Mr Henderson and Ned Kub tr Dona d.
